

Sabrina Berfas
Director
New York

Where do I Begin? Page has come such a long way in #breakingthebias and taking the time to understand the differences and challenges we face as females in corporate America. Women@Page was created in an effort to increase inclusivity. We have implemented many tools and training to ensure we are successful. It wasn't too long ago that the women of Page felt that leadership, and having a baby, were mutually exclusive, and found it challenging to navigate this world. Fast forward to 2022 and we now have Parents@Page and access to childcare and the flexibility women need to make sure we are best positioned in our industry. Additionally, we have more females in leadership across North America than ever before, a sign that there is no stopping the ladies of Page as we continue on our career journey. While there will always be more work to do, Page is a leader in our space of prioritizing the success of women and making sure we feel supported along the way!

“...we have more females in leadership across North America than ever before, a sign that there is no stopping the ladies of Page as we continue on our career journey.”

